The ANEMIA it causes
is the proof that 2-butoxyethanol causes 'all the odd assortment of symptoms'

So, CDC says heart attack is number one cause of death with many cancer groups being the second most probable cause of death in the NATION?

How do doctors know it is a heart attack? Maybe people are collapsing from an inadequate number and type of red blood cells. Look at the same info differently, and there may be hope that medical science will find the anemia that BUTYL and 2-butoxyethanol chemical exposures would cause

What is 'the flu' really?

I hope 'the kids' won't have to get a flu shot

Why flu shots may be hazardous ... not helpful

'the flu' may be a chemical poisoning ...

even if a virus is found, it does not mean it is the cause
of what ails you

What might very high white blood cell counts mean?

A sign of the idiopathic anemia that 2-butoxyethanol would cause:

AIHA or IMHA

Doctors are looking for the anemia, the fatigue of CFIDS, CFS, FM, ME

LEUKEMOID REACTION

"Classically, in IMHA the stimulation of the bone marrow is so strong that even the white blood cells lines (which have very little to do with this disease but which also are born and incubate in the bone marrow along side the red blood cells) are stimulated. This leads to white blood cell counts that are spectacularly high."
